

Did you know...

Early literacy is what children know about reading and writing before they actually learn to read and write. Helping your child develop early literacy skills will build a foundation for reading so that when they are taught to read they are ready.

This monthly newsletter will help you become more familiar with early literacy skills and contains tips and activities you can try at home with your child. The Bookworm is published monthly for three age groups: Birth to 2, Preschool (3-5), and Kindergarten. You can find more Bookworms, as well as versions in Spanish, at <http://libraries.idaho.gov/page/bookworm>.

Here's how...

- ❖ Choose a quiet spot for you and your child to read aloud 15 – 20 minutes each day.
- ❖ Keep books and other reading materials where your child can reach them.
- ❖ Take books and writing supplies with you when you leave home so that your child can read and write wherever you go.
- ❖ Share rhymes and songs that young children enjoy. Keeping books fun will keep them coming back for more.
- ❖ Show your child how you read every day for fun and work (novels, newspapers, magazines, etc.).
- ❖ Visit the library or bookstore with your child to attend storytimes and choose books to read at home.

Read

Where the Wild Things Are*, by Maurice Sendak

This timeless classic story of Max and his Wild Things has brought joy to generations of children. As you read this award-winning book aloud to your child, try using different voices or actions for Max and the monsters. Let your child join in the fun, too!

Maurice Sendak has written and/or illustrated lots of other classic books to look for at your library:

Choose Books

Here are some other great read-aloud books:

Pete the Cat: I Love My White Shoes, by Eric Litwin and James Dean

We're Going on a Bear Hunt, by Michael Rosen

Pete's a Pizza, by Rita Golden Oelman

The Very Hungry Caterpillar, by Eric Carle

Llama Llama Red Pajama, by Anna Dewdney

There's a Bird on Your Head, by Mo Willems

Froggy Gets Dressed, by Jonathan London

Talk

For pages that have only pictures and no words, ask your child to help explain what is happening. Ask questions such as, “Look at Max—how do you think he’s feeling in this picture?” Point out things in the illustrations that your child may not notice.

Write

Now is the time for your preschooler to practice holding a pencil. Start with chunky crayons or sidewalk chalk first. Create a wild thing together—help your child draw two circles on top of each other, then take turns adding horns, claws, teeth, big eyes, and other terrible things!

Sing

Head Shoulders Knees and Toes

(Touch each body part as you sing it)

Head, shoulders, knees and toes,
knees and toes.

Head, shoulders, knees and toes,
knees and toes,

And eyes and ears and mouth and nose.

Head, shoulders, knees and toes,
knees and toes.

(Repeat, getting faster each time)

Now sing: Horns, fangs, knees and claws,
Knees and claws.

Horns, fangs, knees and claws,
Knees and claws. (repeat)

And eyes and ears and tails and paws,
Horns, fangs, knees and claws,
Knees and claws.

Play

Playing Stop and Go games helps your child learn to control his body. Turn on some music, say, “Let the wild rumpus start!” and let your child dance and be a “wild thing.” Then stop the music, say, “Now stop!” and show your child how to freeze in place. Start the music again repeat. Play several times. Older children can learn that when the music stops they should freeze, without your voice cue.

Let your child take a turn at playing Max and be in control of the music while you’re the wild thing.

At your library...

Your library offers many free resources to help you build your child’s early literacy skills: age-appropriate books, music CDs, storytimes, parent workshops, booklists, take-home information, and events for the whole family!
