Julie Fanselow (pronounced FAWNS-low) is a writer specializing in history, travel, education, and the arts. She has written three books on her own and has contributed to many others. Her own books include Idaho Off the Beaten Path, which came out in its eighth edition in the summer of 2010; Traveling the Lewis and Clark Trail; and Traveling the Oregon Trail, all from The Globe Pequot Press. She is also the co-author of books from Lonely Planet, Macmillan, Moon Handbooks, and the Insight Guides.

Julie recently became communications director at the Idaho Education Association. She is keeping a hand in travel writing as a columnist for the Idaho Statesman's quarterly Treasure magazine. She has also written for national magazines including American Heritage, Entertainment Weekly, Parade, Sunset, United Airlines' Hemispheres, Via, and many more regional and national publications. Julie also is a partner in Boise Walking Tours, which offers guided strolls around the capital city.

Julie lives in Boise with her husband and their daughter. Her favorite things include reading, movies, playing and listening to music, hiking, and spending lots of time in libraries!
