Children who do not continue to read over the summer can lose up to 3 months of the progress they make during the school year, and they start school in the fall behind their peers. You can keep your child reading books and engaged in STEM learning this summer by:

- Signing your child up for Summer Reading at your local library.
- Participating in STEM activities at the Library in the Park sites.
- Borrowing books from Little Libraries and your local public library.
- Reading aloud to your children, even if they can read on their own.
- Visiting your local library to participate in STEM programs and check out STEM books.

Brought to you by your local library and the Idaho Commission for Libraries.
