Essay:

I like the book Anne of Green Gables because it is about a girl my age. Anne has a wonderful imagination that helps her through hard times. At parts the book is funny. Ann is consistently striving to be good at school work, and that encourages me to try to be better at school. In chapter twenty-six, Anne makes a story club. Anne and her friends come up with all these stories, which shows that you can have an imagination no matter how old you get. Anne hates a boy in her school class for calling her “carrots” because of her red hair. Anne hates her red hair. He tries to make friends with her, but she will not forgive him. He even saves her life! On the very last page of the book they become friends; a very happy ending.
