

Let's Talk About It – Program Scholar

Michael Corrigan

Pocatello, ID

m_corrigan@hotmail.com

Michael Corrigan is retired from Idaho State University where he taught English and Speech Communications. Born and raised in San Francisco, he holds an MA in English from San Francisco State and attended the American Film Institute. His books include Confessions of a Shanty Irishman, A Year and a Day, These Precious Hours, Mulligan, and The Dean Sisters. He was nominated for a Pushcart prize for the short story, “Free Fall.” The NPR Playhouse broadcast Corrigan’s play for two actors, Letters From Rebecca. He is also the author of the full-length plays, Jake and Jimmy is My Name. Michael currently publishes articles for various outlets including Atticus Magazine online.