VCT 705

Roll on, Columbia. Book One: To the Pacific

Author: Gulick, Bill

Read by: Cooper, Ken

Over the past 50 years all of Bill Gulick's writings have dealt with some aspect of the past, present and future of the Northwest's two mightiest rivers, the Columbia and its largest tributary, the Snake.

During those years he has followed, reported on and taken part in controversy as to what uses should be made of the waters of the legendary "River of the West". To best describe what man has done to the river, the author has written this novel from the viewpoint of six generations of white and Indian families whose fictional lives are closely entwined with the use and development of the Columbia from the establishment of Astoria, Oregon in 1811 to the present day. This is Part One of a three part novel.

It takes 5 steps to create an Idaho Talking Book

1. The print books are requested on interlibrary loan or from the publishers. We review them to determine if they fit the criteria.
2. They are assigned a narrator/monitor and a VCT number
3. They are sent to the studio where they are recorded by a narrator, who reads the books while a monitor listens along and edits out errors as they occur.
4. A reviewer then listens to the book, cleans up any background noises and marks any errors, the narrator then goes back in and makes any corrections.
5. These audio files are then downloaded to cassette!

Cassettes: 1

VCT 724Passages West: Nineteen Stories Of Youth And Identity

Author: Nichols, Hugh

Read by: Head, Janette

A collection of 19 stories about young men and women coming of age in the American West. The selections span U. S. history, depicting Indian attacks, the influenza epidemic of 1918, and a contemporary disgruntled student's storming of his school to gun down offending teachers. Readers will appreciate the local color as they see the influence of snowstorms, isolated ranches, and a Chinese laundryman upon the heroes and heroines. They will recognize the universality of fear, courage, and dignity as they vicariously learn about life along with each memorable character in this noteworthy book.

Some Strong Language.

Cassettes: 3

VCT 726Cheerleaders From Gomorrah: Tales From The Lycra Archipelago

Author: Rember, John

Read by: Stern, Carla

Above all else, the characters in John Rember's second book of stories value hedonism, physical beauty, and athletic prowess. They attempt to ski, run, bicycle, ride, dance, and copulate their way to salvation. But readers of the Old Testament and The Book of Mormon will also recognize that Rember's people live in places watched over by an unforgiving God, a God unamused by humankind's pretentious claims to Eden in the Post-Ironic Recreational West. And yet, despite their comic insistence upon looking for redemption in all the wrong places, Rember's characters also earn delicate, glittering, impossible moments of joy and grace.

VCT 744Buttermilk Curve

Author: Jensen, Deana

Read by: Stephens, Maryan

Not all pioneers who first broke the sage covered hills of south eastern Idaho to the plow were noble, altruistic, and virtuous as some historians would have us believe. Many were fugitives running away from circumstances they could no longer tolerate: the slums of the industrial revolution, suppression by kings, magistrates and dogmatic religions, the war between the states and real or imagined trouble with the law. Some came with an insatiable quest for adventure. Deana Lowe Jensen's collection of ten short stories picture a conglomeration of such characters between 1860 and 1890 in a fictional frontier town of Buttermilk Curve, Idaho. With humor, satire and pathos the author's main purpose is to entertain.

VCT 1064Space Between US

Author: Umrigar, Thrity

Read by: Iffla, Julie

Poignant, evocative, and unforgettable, this book is an intimate portrait of a distant yet familiar world. Set in modern-day India it is the story of two compelling and achingly real women, one an upper-middle class housewife, the other a servant in her household. This novel demonstrates how the lives of the rich and the poor are connected yet removed from each other, and how the strong bonds of womanhood are opposed by the division of class and culture.

IC 351A More Perfect Union

Author: Jance, Judith A.

Read by: Mines, Pat

A shocking photo screamed from the front pages of the tabloids -- the last moments of a life captured for all the world to see. The look of sheer terror eternally frozen on the face of the doomed woman indicated that her fatal fall from an upper story of an unfinished Seattle skyscraper was no desperate suicide -- and that look will forever haunt Homicide Detective J.P. Beaumont. But his hunt for answers and justice is leading to more death, and to dark and terrible secrets scrupulously guarded by men of steel behind the locked doors of a powerful union that extracts its dues of payments in blood.

VCT 687Enduring Legacy (An): The Story Of Basques In Idaho

Author: Bieter, John

Read by: Miller, Patty

In "An Enduring Legacy", brothers John and Mark Bieter chronicle three generations of Basque presence in Idaho from 1890 to the present. This is an engaging story that begins with a few solitary shepherders and follows their evolution into the prominent ethnic community of today. Over the century the Basques have been in Idaho, the choices and opportunities for each generation have created a subculture that is neither purely Basque nor purely American, but rather a very distinctive tile in the mosaic of the American immigrant experience.

Cassettes: 2

VCT 689Pull Of Moving Water (The)

Author: Koskela, Alice

Read by: Johnson, Susan

In this coming-of-age memoir, Alice Koskela captures that peculiar mix of innocence and ruthlessness that is childhood - that time when we know far less than we think we do, and far more than any adult might guess.

Koskela describes the cultural simmering of the 1950s and the explosion of the 1960s from the vantage point of a girl growing up inside those years, yet impossibly removed from anything that seems to matter. She's stuck on an irrigated farm in southern Idaho, a state so remote and uncool that Dick Clark mocks it on American Bandstand.

VCT 692Short Of A Good Promise

Author: Studebaker, William V.

Read by: Stern, Carla

William Studebaker's reminiscence of his grandparents and parents, and of growing up in the backcountry of southern Idaho in the post-World War II period, is at once humorous and heart-wrenching. It is a story of mail-order brides and the eccentric characters the author learned to love in the family-run old folks home. It is a tale of love and rape, of vast expectations, and of wandering with no place left to go, when southern Idaho sometimes turned out to be just short of the promise it seemed to hold for those seeking new lives. One of Idaho's foremost poets and essayists, Studebaker reveals his family's story in plain prose, free verse, and photo snapshots.

From the introduction to Proving the Principle, "This book is neither a technical report nor a scientific assessment. It is intended for the general reader with no background in physics, chemistry, or any other science. It aims to trace the changing relationship between a federal nuclear laboratory and its home state (Idaho). Nuclear science is a character in the story, however, but not dressed in all its technical finery."

Cassettes: 3

VCT 707Pavlov's Trout, The Incomplete Psychology of Everyday Fishing

Author: Quinnett, Paul

Read by: Stevenson, Bob

Fifty million Americans go fishing every year. But why? Eminent Idaho psychologist and veteran fisherman Paul Quinnett, PhD, explores the main, often mysterious, motivations that attract millions to the sport of fishing. In this lighthearted and insightful book, Quinnett postulates that people fish to satisfy primitive instincts, connect to the wilderness, relieve stress and to experience the optimism, freedom and excitement of pursuit. Pavlov's is truly a fishing book like no other - a venturing into the psyche, a world where it is better to fish hopefully than to catch fish.

VCT 751Mystery Of The Blue Bucket Gold (The)

Author: Laurance, B. F.

Read by: Ericson, Norma

This book is a nonfiction collection of stories of the historical Northwest. The lead story is a narrative of the Northwest's most famous lost mine. The story of the lost Blue Bucket Gold has grown to mythic proportions. At the same time, the story has a strong basis in historical fact. The authors, both retired educators, make their home in western Idaho. Travel to and from their home to their ranch in central Oregon involves crossing the area where this legendary mine was both discovered and lost. Twenty years of research both in the field and through early records have resulted in new insights into an old mystery.

VCT 1016Fort Limhi: The Mormon Adventure in Oregon Territory, 1855-1858

Author: Bigler, David L.

Read by: Ericson, Norma

In May 1855 twenty-seven men set out from the young Mormon settlements in Utah to establish the northernmost colony of the Kingdom of God, "the Northern Mission to the Remnants of the House of Jacob" American Indians. Building a fort in the Lemhi Valley, they began to proselyte among Sacagawea's Shoshone relatives as well as members of the Bannock, Nez Percé, and other tribes. Three years later, some of their Indian converts violently drove the colonists out and destroyed Fort Lemhi. Author David Bigler shows that the colony, known as the Salmon River Mission, played a pivotal role in the Utah War of 1857–1858 and that the catastrophic end of the mission was critical in keeping that conflict from becoming an all out war between Mormon Utah and the United States.

VCT 1017Wild to the Last: Environmental Conflict in the Clearwater Country

Author: Pezeshki, Charles

Read by: Albertson, Nichole

Charles Pezeshki writes with passion, providing a mesmerizing picture of the forces arrayed to destroy roadless areas and their dependent animal and plant species in Idaho's Clearwater National Forest. In addition, he gives readers the tragic background material on the irreversible damage done to public lands in the past by state and federal agencies charged with their management. With engaging narrative the author unforgettably presents the pristine nature of these precious areas and the limited time they have left to exist if citizens don't wake up to their imminent, taxpayer-subsidized ruin. If you are not already a wilderness/roadless area advocate, this book will light the fires within your soul.

VCT 1019Sowing and the Reaping, The:
A Western Recollection

Author: Stewart, George

Read by: Clancy, Michael

Young George Stewart moved from the plains of Kansas to a Colorado mountain region where he spent an early boyhood among miners, ranchers, and human and animal characters of every description. The years were filled with hard work, old timer's stories, contests of skill, and schooling. But if life in Colorado was difficult in those days of few railroads and no automobiles, the author's teenage years in Idaho's Payette Valley were more so. The poverty stricken family moved into that raw, arid country when the boy was fourteen. Tales of taming the land, irrigation problems, the changing season, threshing and harvesting, death, friends and community spirit, horses, mules and coyotes are recalled in vivid, often poetry, and prose.

On All Sides Nowhere: Building a Life in Rural Idaho

Author: Gruber, William

Read by: Lee, Tracie

When Bill Gruber left New York City for graduate school in Idaho, he and his wife decided to experience true rural living. They bought an abandoned log cabin and its surrounding forty acres in Alder Creek, a town considered small even by Idaho standards. But farm living was far from bucolic. Gruber now had to rise with the sun to finish strenuous chores, cope with the lack of modern conveniences, and shed his city-slicker pretensions to become a real local. Despite these initial hardships, he came to realize that reality was far better than his wistful fantasies. Instead of solitude, he found a warm, welcoming community; instead of rural stolidity, he found intelligence and wisdom; instead of relaxation, he found satisfaction in working the land. What began as a two-year experiment became a seven-year love affair with a town he will always consider home.

Forlorn Hope: The Nez Perce Victory at White Bird Canyon

Author: McDermott, John D.

Read by: Sollars, Jeffrey

Here is the story of the spark that started a war. On June 17, 1877, 109 soldiers and civilian volunteers rode into a deep canyon in the Idaho Territory. Their mission was to attack a small band of Nez Perce camped on the banks of White Bird Creek. In the battle that followed, the numerically inferior Nez Perce fighters inflicted one of the worst defeats ever suffered by the American military during the Indian Wars. This account of the White Bird Battle, from both the Indian and white point of view, is considered by many experts to be one of the best books written on an event from the Western Indian wars.

VCT 1130Deep Dark: Tragedy and Redemption in America's Richest Silver Mine

Author: Olsen, Gregg

Read by: Johnson, Susie

For nearly a century, Kellogg, Idaho, was home to America's richest silver mine, Sunshine Mine. Mining there, as everywhere, was not an easy life, but regardless of the risk, there was something about being underground, the lure of hitting a deep vein of silver. On May 2, 1972, 174 miners entered Sunshine Mine on their daily quest for silver. Unlike dangerously combustible coal mines, Sunshine was a fireproof hardrock mine. There were many safety concerns at Sunshine, but fire wasn't one of them, so when thick black smoke began pouring from one of the air shafts, safety engineer Bob Launhardt was as amazed as he was alarmed. In The Deep Dark, Gregg Olsen looks beyond the intensely suspenseful story of the fire and rescue to the wounded heart of Kellogg, a quintessential company town that has never recovered from its loss. This is one of the great rescue stories of the twentieth century.

Scorched Earth: How the Fires of Yellowstone Changed America

Author: Barker, Rocky

Read by: Dimmick, Margaret

The author witnessed firsthand the uncontrollable 1988 forest fires that ravaged Yellowstone Park. In this book, he argues that we must understand fire in order to contain it, revealing how misguided suppression can actually fan the flames. He traces modern approaches to fire and land management to Yellowstone's creation after the Civil War. The park, and indeed the West, was shaped by a colorful cast of characters, from railroad barons to explorers and naturalists.

Religion, Politics, and Sugar: the Mormon Church, the Federal Government, and the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, 1907-1921

Author: Godfrey, Matthew C.

Read by: Vap, Sue

At the height of attempts during the Progressive Era to rein in big business, the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, a business supported and controlled by the Latter-Day Saints church and run by Mormon authorities, collided with Federal regulatory agencies and prosecutors. The Church's involvement, initiated by divine inspiration of the Mormon prophet, led to the monopolistic practices of the Company and to Federal investigations. This book offers insights into the role that the Mormon church played in economic affairs in the intermountain West during the early twentieth century.

Charity Afton Yorgason was born without a brain. She had a brain stem, which operated her autonomic nervous system and allowed her lungs and heart to work. But, her foster parents were told, she would never use any of her senses, never experience joy or love, never feel pain or any other physical sensation. And she would most likely die before she was two years old. Blaine and Kathy's response was simple: "If she needs a home, we'll be happy to give it to her." So Charity was adopted by the Yorgason family, and the miracles began. This astounding, true account is expanded in this edition to cover all the years of Charity's life, and includes many photographs. Her story is a stunning testimony of the power to the spirit, the love of God, and the purpose of mortality.

IC 314Sometimes a Shining Moment:
The Foxfire Experience

Author: Wigginton, Elliot

The book is divided into three parts. The first is the Foxfire story: how and why the first issue of Foxfire magazine was put together, what happened between its publication and the appearance of the Foxfire book and the immediate aftermath of that event. The purpose of this book is to relate parts of it that might be most applicable and useful to the audience (of teachers) much of what principles touchstones lessons that the author learned in the earlier years are valid and applicable now as they were then and make up Part II. Part III shows the philosophy outlined in the second section at work in several actual twenty five to thirty pupil courses being offered within the constraints of fifty five minute periods inside the traditional public high school.

IC 324Grand Canyon Women: Lives
Shaped By Landscape

Author: Leavengood, Betty

Read by: Spielmann, Janet

Grand Canyon Women tells the humorous and heartbreaking tales of eighteen remarkable women- river-runners, scientists, wranglers, architects, rangers, hikers and housewives-each of whom, in the midst of nature's indiscriminate universe, discovers her identity. Some come to the canyon by happenstance, others seek it out with passion and purpose. Most triumph over terrific challenges while others meet a darker fate. Grand Canyon Women takes readers to a place of life-defining discovery and to tidy homes of rural routine. No matter what the journey, these stories will inspire adventurous readers everywhere.

Cassettes: 2

IC 364Who Owns the West

Author: Kittredge, William

Read by:

Who owns the West? "All of us, of course," says William Kittredge, but this "simple answer... is sort of beside the point when we get down to considering questions of fairness. Stay joyous under the sun and moon, in the rain and out; that's another halfway answer."

Kittredge gives us not easy answers but a sustained meditation on what it means to be a Westerner today.
