

Why Read Aloud to Your Child?

It creates special memories and closeness between you and your child.

It expands your child's attention span.

It nourishes their imagination, curiosity and creativity.

It helps your child become a better listener.

It teaches your child about people, places, and things beyond their personal experience.

It helps your child learn new words.

It supports your child's learning both inside and outside of school.

It helps your child learn about himself/herself.

You become a reading role model for your child.

It's fun!
